THE TURN CALLED

On Mendacious Old Bill McKinley of Ohio.

WILSON'S LONDON SPEECH

Was Garbled By McKinley For Political Effect—Wilson Expected as Much and Prepared Himself for it by Having His Address Correctly Reported—Two Noted Men Dead.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 7.—The Baltimore Sun correspondent boarded the New York as she came up from quarantine, and carried to Mr. Wilson the first home news he had received for some time.

His attention was called to the Sun's report of the speeches of Major McKinley, commenting on the London speech and the chamber of commerce dinner. He read this attentively, and, putting down the paper, remarked: "The best answer to all this is the speech I delivered, and which Major McKinley is criticizing."

"If Major McKinley is rightly reported, he has simply garbled my speech by using the first half of a sentence to twist it in one way and omitting the last half, which could not be so used. I knew full well that whatever I might say on such an occasion would be thus garbled and falsely presented to the American people by protection speakers and papers, and so I did what I seldom do, or have time to do—dictated and gave to the press an accurate synopsis of my speech and a full copy of the address to the London Times, which called forth the long editorial in that paper the next day, from which Mr. McKinley and his followers may take all the comfort they can draw."

"I went abroad at my doctor's suggestions, to shake off my unspeakable fatigue, so as to take part as much as possible in the campaign. In England I visited friends at Oxford and Cambridge. Every body being in London phrase, out of town, I saw few public men. The dinner tendered me was, I felt, too great an honor to my country and myself to be declined, coming from the great commercial chamber of the world. I accepted, feeling that I could not show my appreciation of it better than speaking as an American citizen and exactly as I speak here at home. In this I was not deceived. My speech was received by the whole audience in the spirit in which it was made, and while many, perhaps most of them, may have disagreed with me, I found that more than one long-headed Englishman agreed that our reduced tariff would make us a great competitor in the world's markets, and eventually regain for us our share of the carrying trade of the world."

Mr. Wilson was asked whether he had made any investigation about "trusts" in England. "I did not," he replied, "but when I was in England in 1889 I did and discussed the subject in a series of articles I wrote for the Sun at the time. Some of those articles were written from England. Trusts, as we know them, could not exist in Great Britain. Where the whole world is free to compete no trust can corner the market."

With regard to coal, Mr. Wilson stated that the English syndicate which formerly owned the Nova Scotia mines were much pleased at getting rid of the property. Practically, bunker coal was on the free list in the McKinley bill. Foreign steamships could and can buy Nova Scotia coal at Boston, New York or at any American port free of duty, and yet they prefer to buy the Maryland and Virginia coal. This fact alone ought to do away with the scare about free coal.

"If you should unfortunately be for the house," observed Mr. Straus, "I have no doubt the people of West Virginia will insist on putting you in the senate."

"I much prefer the house," Mr. Wilson replied. "It is a far greater and more active body."

Mr. Wilson proposes to begin his canvass at once.

HIS END WAS PEACEFUL.

BELLFONTE, Pa., Oct. 7.—Ex-Governor Andrew G. Curtin died at 5 o'clock this morning. This afternoon, peaceful, he having been unconscious during the last twelve hours. All the members of his family were at his bedside when he passed away.

Mr. Curtin had been in feeble health for some weeks, but his condition grew serious on Thursday last and from that time he sank rapidly. Death was caused by old age. The ex-governor was in his eightieth year, and this being combined with nervous trouble, which, upon reaching the vital points in the brain, ended his life. When the case first took on a serious aspect physicians were summoned, but they then abandoned all hopes of recovery, and the death of the old war governor was not a surprise.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES DEAD.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 7.—Oliver Wendell Holmes died at his residence at Beverly Falls farm, this afternoon. Oliver Wendell Holmes was born at Cambridge, Mass. August 29, 1809. He graduated at Harvard college in 1829, and began the study of law, which he soon abandoned for that of medicine. After taking his degree of M. D., he spent some time in the hospitals in Paris and other European countries. He returned to Boston in 1835, and began practicing. In 1838, he was elected professor of anatomy and physiology in Dartmouth college, and in 1847 was appointed to similar professorship in the medical school of Harvard university.

ity, from which he retired in 1882. But it is chiefly as a writer that Dr. Holmes is known. As early as 1831 his contributions appeared in various periodicals, and his reputation was established by the delivery of a metrical essay entitled, "Poetry," which was followed by others in rapid succession. In 1837 he began in the Atlantic Monthly a series of articles under the title of "The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table," which were followed in 1840 by "The Professor at the Breakfast Table," in 1872, by "Poet at the Breakfast Table."

As a writer of songs, lyrics and poems for festive occasions he has long occupied the first place. In 1890 he visited England, where he was received with great cordiality. Editions of his collected poems have appeared from time to time, the first in 1836. He had contributed largely to current medical literature, as well as to literary journals and reviews, and for a long time held a warm place in the hearts of the people as a lecturer. A series of genial papers from his pen entitled, "Over the Teacups," appeared in the Atlantic Monthly, during 1890.

The latter years of his life have been spent in quiet retirement at Beverly Falls farm, broken occasionally by a lecture to the Harvard students.

What Do You Take Medicine For?

Because you are sick, and want to get well, of course.

Then remember, that Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures. All we ask is, that in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla you will do so with perseverance equalling or approaching the tenacity with which your complaint has clung to you. It takes time and care to eradicate old and deep-seated maladies, particularly when they have been so long hidden in the system that they have become chronic. Remember, that all permanent and positive cures are brought about with reasonable moderation. Hood's Sarsaparilla attacks disease vigorously and never leaves the field until it has conquered.

Woman Inventor's Prayer to Congress.

A unique petition has turned up on the house side among some old papers. The memorialist is a woman, and she asks congress to appropriate $500 to enable her to perfect and place upon the market sundry inventions, which she lacks means to secure patents upon. She says: "I have asked assistance from most every one I thought most likely to aid. I began on the common liner, went on to the thousands, then to millions, then to the president—but I asked Brother Arthur. They all paid as deaf an ear to it as the Alps would to the chirp of a snowbird." She asks congress to "look into the patent office treasury and see if you can find an idle $500 that is doing no one any good. Bring it out and let me use it for a season. Money, like trees, yields more by being stirred about the roots."—Washington Post.

Who Will Go to China?

The cashier of the Second National bank of Altoona, Pa., has gone to Japan, carrying away a heavy bale of the assets of that institution, possibly with the intention of helping out the island people financially in their present crisis. To make things even some other cashier ought to run away to China with a like amount to bolster up the fiscal system of the pigtail. It would be hard on the home depositor, but that type of cashier is superior to such narrow and local interests. The case presents a variety of considerations, as the last one of the kind did and the next one will, but it seems useless to enlarge upon them.—New York Tribune.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal happiness when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs. Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fever, and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance. Syrup of Figs is for sale by all drug stores in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, and the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

DISTRICT COURT.

Capt. Davis Will Appear for Sentence Tomorrow.

THE DOUTRES PLEAD.

Parties Under Indictment Ordered to Appear and Plead on Friday Morning Next at 10 O'clock—Judge Watts of Bureau Gets a Verdict Without Offering Evidence.

The First District court opened this morning after two days' vacation. Judge King explained to the attorneys and jurors that unexpected judicial business in the Fourth district made it absolutely necessary for him to be in Ogden and he was detained there a great deal longer than he expected, hence he could not hold court here. The explanation was entirely satisfactory to all concerned.

Some cases set for hearing, but not yet ready for trial were passed and in one, Michael L. Powers vs. J. S. Watts a verdict for the defendant, no cause of action, was returned without evidence being offered. The plaintiff was not in court.

J. M. Alfred, convicted at the Mantle term of court of adultery, appeared for sentence. Judge King was his attorney at the trial, and of course could not pass sentence. The matter went over temporarily.

A motion for an arrest of judgment in the case against J. W. Taylor of Santaquin on account of insufficiency of the indictment was made and argued by Attorney M. L. Warner. It will be remembered that young Taylor was tried recently on a charge of assault with intent to commit rape upon the person of Bertha Mousley. He was convicted of simple assault, but not held that the indictment does not charge assault and that therefore the defendant cannot be legally convicted of that offense.

Ed Feland was appointed receiver for the Deseret Co-op, the affairs of which are now being litigated. His bonds were placed at $6,000.

Captain Davis, convicted of involuntary manslaughter, for the killing of Charles Brock, was called for sentence. His attorney, Mr. Sutherland, explained that Judge Henderson of the attorneys for the defense was in consultation with Judge Judd, the object being to agree upon some arrangement for the disposal of the other cases pending against Davis for the killing of Druselle and Mueller. It may be that these cases will be pushed to trial if the indictments are not dismissed and it may be, even, that a motion for a new trial of the case recently tried will be made.

Mr. Davis was instructed to be in court again tomorrow (Tuesday) morning at 10 o'clock. At that time Judge Henderson, and, it may be, Judge Judd also, will be present in court.

The case of Peter Huntsman vs. James W. Huntsman was dismissed at cost of plaintiff. No parties to the case on either side were present in court.

Andrew Peterson vs. Scipio School district. This was an appealed case. In the lower court Mr. Peterson sued the school on an order issued by the secretary which the board refused to honor. He lost the case and the court assessed the costs against him as well as $20.00 damages. It was against the payment of this latter that Mr. Peterson objected. The ruling of Judge King was that under the pleadings the lower court had had no legal authority to assess damages in any amount.

Twenty days' stay was granted in the case of W. P. Noble Mercantile Co. vs. Peter Madsen et al.

Demurrer was sustained and plaintiff allowed to file amended complaint in the case of Israel Evans vs. the Netherland Fine Stock and Dairy company.

In the case of Hannah Carter vs. James Carter an order was made appointing James Carter temporary guardian for the minor children.

The following settlements were made and court adjourned:

Laird vs. R. G. W. Ry. Co. Oct. 18th. Mott vs. Alfred. Oct. 29th. Saxey vs. Horrocks. Oct. 10th. A. Q. Robison vs. Elizabeth Ferguson. Oct. 19th.

A. Q. Robison vs. Peter Greenhalgh et al. Oct. 10th.

THIS AFTERNOON.

The grand jury reported having found seven indictments under United States laws and one under territorial laws. The judge ordered that all persons under indictment who have not yet pleaded be brought into court for pleading on Friday morning, October 12th at 10 a. m.

Alfred Dautre and son pleaded not guilty to a charge of charging grand larceny alleged to have been committed in Millard county this summer when they befieed a heifer not their own property. Bonds for each were fixed at $250.00.

Other motions and orders are being made as this report closes.

The Wonderful Congo.

The Congo is the most wonderful waterway in the world. It is 25 miles across in parts, so that vessels may pass one another and yet be out of sight. It has twice the extent of the navigable waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries and three times its population.—Philadelphia Press.
